KATE FIELD ON DUDES.

"Miss Field, please tell me your opinion of dudes."

Holding up her hands in a gesture of utter deprecation she exclaimed: "The dude is my horror, a creature who fills me with disgust. Of all the social excrecences inflicted upon that peculiar American bulb called 'society,' I deem him the most useless kind of fungus. Has he one redeeming point? If he has pray tell me, for I cannot find it. He has no individuality, no equality, even of the most incipient order, and all that I can see he is good for is to nurse his cane and flatten his nose at a club window."

"And yet the dude seems to thrive in New York."

"So much the worse for New York's common sense. Now in England the British dude is usually a helpless kind of young man upon whom the accident of birth has fallen. His parents have money, and there is a raison d'être for his existence. Here there is, or should be, none. I can scarcely suppose, for the credit of any nationality, that he is an outgrowth of our republican system—for if he is, it is a strong argument against republicanism."

"Have you any proposition for the extinction of the dude?"

"Do you know that I think we might borrow a useful hint from the Chinese method of overcoming the difficulty. There, I am told, when the population of a given constituency is larger than convenience warrants, it is customary for state officials to go around every morning, gather up the female babies, put them in a bag, and lay them carefully away where they'll never trouble anybody. Now, if the dudes were treated in similar fashion they would soon pass out of existence and the world would hear no more of them. Really, in the interest of the great majority, I think the plan has its merits."

"Could you not draw me a picture of the dude?"

"Take a strip of something that, for the sake of convenience, we will call a man—which by the way, is a gross libel on man. Around its neck place a tight collar, enshrouded with a hideous scarf and breast-pin. Put upon it a silk hat and a cut-away coat. Clothe its lower extremities with pants wherein calves were never meant to grow. In its hand a cane, and on its feet boots that creak at every step in limping measure. Place a cigarette in its mouth; teach it a brief vocabulary of adverbs and adjectives commencing with 'immensely clever' and finish with 'see you later, you know,' and in my humble opinion you obtain a fair conception of the brazen and capacity of the American dude. But let us change the subject—it is not enlightening."

Another Life Saved.

Mrs. Harriet Cummings, of Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "Early last winter my daughter was attacked with a severe cold which settled on her lungs. We tried several medicines, none of which seemed to do her any good, but she continued to get worse, and finally raised large amounts of blood from her lungs. We called in a family physician, but he failed to do her any good. We then called in a physician—a most skillful professor in one of our colleges—he said that she could not get well. At this time a friend who had been cured by DR. WM. HALL'S BAL-SAM FOR THE LUNGS, advised me to give it a trial. We then got a bottle, and before she had used it all up she began to improve, and by the use of three bottles was entirely cured."

LEGAL NOTICE.

In the Probate Court of Salt Lake County, Territory of Utah.

In the matter of the Estate of Eliza Wallin, deceased.

IT APPEARS TO THE JUDGE OF said Court by the petition of C. E. Wallin, the administrator of the estate of Eliza Wallin, deceased, praying for an order to sell real estate, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay debts outstanding against the deceased, and the debts, expenses and charges of administration. It is therefore ordered by the judge of said court, that all persons interested in said estate appear before said court on Saturday, the 23d day of June, A. D. 1883, at 10 a. m. of said day at the office of the Probate Judge, at his residence on North Temple street, between West Temple and First West streets, Salt Lake City, to show cause, if any, why an order should not be granted to said Administrator, to sell so much of the real estate of the deceased as shall be necessary. And that a copy of this order be published ten days previous to the day of hearing said petition in the Salt Lake Daily Herald, a newspaper published in and having general circulation in said county.

Dated at Salt Lake City this 12th day of June, A. D. 1883.

E. SMITH, Probate Judge.

TERRITORY OF UTAH, }
COUNTY OF SALT LAKE, } S. S.

I hereby certify the foregoing to be a full, true and correct copy of the original order on file, in my office, in the above entitled matter.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the above named court, this 12th day of June, A. D. 1883.

JEFF D. BOEHOLT, Clerk.
